Clay's Corner

It's Tuesday morning as I write this. So far today, I was abruptly awakened from a deep sleep by my wife because she was abruptly awakened by her alarm clock at 5 a.m. She turned to me and said, "Honey, it's 5 o'clock. Time to get up." I love her for that. She has always set an alarm that would wake her up so that she could wake me up so that I could be on time to wherever it was I had to be, whether work or play. Personally, I don't know that I would always be so willing to do that, especially that early in the morning.

I spent the next hour cooking a dozen breakfast tacos to take with me to our weekly men's prayer breakfast. This week was a small group; just three of us. But I am so thankful for those who faithfully show up and spend a few minutes in prayer on behalf of our congregation; seeking God's wisdom for us and healing for those around us. What a wonderful service. Intercessory prayer. Thank you to all the men who take time out of your otherwise busy schedules to pray for us and those in the world around us. I am convinced with all that I am that your prayers are being answered and that the spiritual growth we are witnessing is a direct result of your efforts. Keep up the good work!

Last Sunday afternoon, 20 of our number traveled to Seguin to watch the movie War Room. I want to thank Kevin and Victoria for setting this up. I can say with all certainty that everyone who attended walked away spiritually uplifted and challenged to do more in our prayer lives as we battle the unseen forces of darkness that wage war against our families, our church, and those around us.

Today, we begin a six-sermon series of lessons based on the principles of following Jesus. Kyle Idleman wrote a book, Not a Fan, a few years ago. In this book Kyle defines what it means to be a follower of Jesus...and he puts forth the premise that many who call themselves "Followers" would more aptly be called "Fans" and he goes on to describe the difference, using the words of Christ to define both.

In the beginning of the book, Idleman opens with a very basic challenge for those who would call themselves Christians; he asks readers to "Define The Relationship," DTR. In the lesson this morning, that is exactly what we will begin to do, define our relationship with Jesus, so that over the course of the following six weeks and by the time we come to the end of the series, we will know exactly where we stand and where Jesus stands in our lives. Are we truly "Followers"? Or are we just "Fans"?

If you look around you each Sunday morning, you'll notice we are growing. We are getting visitors from out of town and locally. Many are extended family members and some are just travelers; but more and more we are seeing people who are searching for a church home or are searching for God. I wish to thank you all for the warm response you give those who are visiting with us each Sunday. I also would like to challenge each of you to find one person in your life to begin a personal crusade to bring them to the Lord. Inviting them to worship with us is a good second step. But the most important step is the step where you ask God to open a door to someone's heart. Will you please pray for that someone starting today? Will you please ask God to open the doors to someone's heart and then ask Him to lead you to them so that you can do whatever it takes to get them where they need to be? Most people are looking for something. Will you be the one to show them God?

They were able to give him his seizure medicines via IV to stabilize him. He was able to go home on Thursday.

Victoria Johnson met with an endocrinologist in San Antonio on Wednesday regarding some lingering issues thought to be associated with her thyroid. The doctor ran some additional tests and Victoria has a follow-up in four weeks.
