God's Got This!

I have a certain way I like to be organized in every aspect of my life. I always knew that it was a different way of being organized, but it works for me and my brain. Often times my organization is backwards from how it would normally be done by maybe most. When Paige and I first got married this was an issue for me because she has a very different way of organizing things. It wasn't like mine and I was prepared for it not being like mine, but I was expecting it to be in that normal range of doing things. It wasn't. It was hard to get my head wrapped around the way she would do things. We were two different puzzles trying to make things fit. At times, the first couple years, it was fun but very difficult trying to figure out how to fit these things to make one whole piece. Now we have our ways of organization and they're different from the normal way, but it works and it all comes together.

We're in week three of the story and this is my favorite chapter so far. Chapter 3, or Genesis 37-50, is the story of Joseph. He has been my favorite character outside of Jesus since I can remember. Fun fact, Moses gives Joseph more attention than he does anyone else. This may seem strange considering the prominence Jews gave to some of the other patriarchs. There are over 75 shadows of Jesus within the story of Joseph and it may be more like 100. So with this giant of a man giving us so much application for our lives, what is the overall viewpoint of this story? I mean, we see the importance of following dreams, facing adversity, never giving up, forgiveness. I think the big idea covers all of these and it's found in Genesis 50. In verse 20 we see all the different moving parts of the story come together. We see that this man had his life aligned with the ways of God and that allowed him to never give up, to forgive, and to save the nation God is building. "You intended to harm me, but God intended it for good to accomplish what is now being done, the saving of many lives." (Gen.50:20 NIV)

We truly need to remember and understand that God has got this. All the good and bad in our lives or the lives of our loved ones, God can and will use it for the good he has planned. That to the best type of good we can get. We must align our lives to His story so we can keep going, forgive, never give up, or back down.

Challenge: This week when something good or bad in your life or someone you know simply tell yourself this will fit into the puzzle God is making. That can be praying, writing it down, or verbally telling yourself God has got this.
